of Grand Jury Transcript listing Springer and Horn and Nelson,

Prior to October, 2000, the President abolished the Secretary's authority to act lawfully outside the District of Columbia by abolishing all Internal Revenue Districts and District Director Offices. previously establish pursuant to Title 26, § 7621 and 26 CFR § 301.7621.

On April 26, 2005, Brian Shern declared he, as an authorized "Special Agent" "was assigned as the case agent to conduct an investigation of Lindsey Springer for allegations of violations of Title 26, United States Code, including Tax evasion and failure to file income tax returns." See Shern Declaration signed November 27, 2007.

The United States asserted in 09-CR-043, Doc 81-2, that a criminal referral to the U.S. Attorney was made on June 3, 2005.

On September 15, 2005 Shern declared in this case he presented an application to United States Magistrate Judge Frank H. McCarthy for a search warrant to search Springer's home.

On September 15, 2005, Magistrate Frank H. McCarthy, based upon Shern's purported statements, issue a search warrant. See Exhibit 4 attached to Shern's Declaration. The "affidavit" was not attached and will be addressed below.

To shield himself against liability in this case, Shern declared he at all times and during the levy of his unlawfully obtained search warrant, declared:

"The authority of Special Agents of the Internal Revenue Service Criminal Investigation to execute search warrants is set forth in Section 7608(b) of the Internal Revenue Code."

Each of the Eleven claiming "Special Agent" status in similar declarations filed at or about the same time as Mr. Sherr, Mr. Taylor is the only individual defendant who made a declaration at a later time.

Both Mr. Horn and Ms. Nelson declared at all times they were shielded by prosecutorial immunity based upon their actions taken in relation to the search warrant involved a grand jury investigation. They were authorized to perform (purportedly)

This Court ordered the dismissal of Springer's claims against Horn and Nelson granting them prosecutorial immunity. That order was not appealable because other claims were not dismissed against the remaining defendants.

Although this Court denied multiple attempts to dismiss the remaining defendants, on August 5, 2010, on interlocutory appeal, the Tenth Circuit reversed this Court directing Summary Judgment in the remaining defendants favor granting qualified immunity, finding the remaining Eleven did not know they could be held liable for stealing money while in Springer's home per a search warrant.

Springer Petitioned for Rehearing and Rehearing En Banc and on October 15, 2010, the Panel granted rehearing and changed 3 words on page 18 clarifying its meaning on page 13 and 15 of its order.

On April 21, 2010, during Springer's Sentencing Hearing, Springer asked Mr. Stern what his delegation of authority was in relation to the investigation against Springer to which he replied:

"I assume I became a delegate when I became a Special Agent."

09-CR-043, Doc 399, pg 39 through 40
Exhibit 1.

Springer was incarcerated as a flight risk as of April 23, 2010, and was moved to three different places landing in Big Springs Texas on July 23, 2010.

Springer did not receive the transcripts until late August, 2010 and is only allowed limited time to review all records.

The merits of this Motion follow.

I Horn and Nelson did not have lawful authority to prosecute Lindsey K. Springer or Oscar A. Stilley.

There is no dispute that prior to October 6, 2004, Doug Horn and Melody Nelson were pursuing prosecution against Springer and Stilley. This Court can take judicial notice of pleadings filed in another case in the same Clerk's Office. See 09-CR-043, Doc. 224, 226, 252, 293.

There equally is no doubt the Search Warrant issued on September 15, 2005 was in pursuit of Ms. Nelson and Mr. Horn's ongoing Grand Jury Investigation related to Internal revenue laws. See both Horn and Nelson's Declaration referencing attachments to the Search Warrant and Title 26, § 7201 and 7203. Sherris purported affidavit not sworn on file in the Clerk's Office also cites to both provisions.

In U.S. v. LaSalle, 437 U.S. 298, 312 (1978), the Supreme Court stated that the IRS cannot try its own prosecutions and a "referral" to the U.S. Attorneys allows prosecution under Title 28, § 547(1) to "proceed." The U.S. Attorney is established by nomination by the President to a specific judicial district. See Title 28 § 541. U.S. v. Crobarger 158 Fed Appx 100 (10th Cir 2005).

The Secretary of the Treasury has no delegation to give to a Special Agent "as long as... referral has been made to Justice for criminal prosecution."

Stoffels v. Hegarty, Fed Appx 814
See also Anaya v. U.S. 815 F.2d 1373, 1377 (10th Cir. 1990)

The Secretary of the Treasury created the Internal Revenue Service at 26 CFR § 601.101. See Snyder v. IRS 596 F. Supp. 240, 247 (N.D. Ind 1984). The Tenth Circuit found the Secretary of the Treasury's structure is found at 26 U.S.C. § 7801-10; 26 CFR Part 600. See Lonsdale v. U.S. 919 F.2d 1440, 1448 (10th Cir. 1990).

Title 4, § 72 prohibits the office of President and Secretary of the Treasury from being exercised outside the District of Columbia, unless expressly provided by law. Hughes v. US 953 F.2d 531, 542 (9th Cir. 1992).

These offices can only be exercised, related to Title 26, through Internal Revenue Districts. See Title 26, § 7621; See also Hughes, supra.

All criminal referrals are through each District Director. See 26 CFR 601.107 which shows the interrelated nature of civil and criminal functions before referral.

Delegation Order 9-6 at IRM 1.2.48.7 directs Special Agents to refer all criminal matters within their respective jurisdictions. See also Treasury Decision 150-35.

The referral must come from a delegate of the District Director.

"Within an Internal Revenue District

the Internal Revenue laws are administered by a District Director of Internal Revenue."

This Court is directed to take judicial notice of official seals of each District Director. March v. IRS, 335 F.3d 1186, 1189 (10th Cir. 2003). The Secretary is to administer and enforce the Internal Revenue laws. See Title 26, § 7801 and 7805. Aluminum Co. of America v. U.S. 514 F.3d 1119, 1124 (10th Cir. 2008). See also Springer v. U.S. 447 F. Supp 2d. 1235, 1238 (N.D. Ok 2006) "Federal Statutes and Regulations lay down the rule as a matter of Federal law." U.S. v. Taylor, 828 F.2d 630, 634 (10th Cir. 1987). These Statutes and Regulations are "essential to establishing jurisdiction and venue." U.S. v. Brewer, 486 F.2d 507 509 (10th Cir. 1973).

The procedures set forth in the Internal Revenue Code were prescribed for the protection of both Government and Taxpayer. U.S. v. Braffman 384 F.2d 863, 865 (5th Cir. 1967). There is no question Congress directs its power to the Secretary to canvas the "revenue districts." LaSalle at 309.

Congress did not give U.S. Attorneys power to prosecute purported Tax Offenses. That authority must come from the Secretary of the Treasury according to the rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary.

Neither Doug Horn or Melody Nelson were authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury or any authorized delegate to pursue enforcement of the tax laws against Springer or Stilley as of October 6, 2004 or September 15 and 16, 2005.

If they rely upon any delegation to the United States Attorney David O'Melia, they should produce such purported referral.

The referral must be in accordance with the Statutes and Treasury Regulations. Without Internal Revenue Districts and District Directors offices no such referral under 26 CFR 601.107 and Delegation Orders in affect as of the two dates above, are even possible to exist.

Because both Horn and Nelson were not authorized by any proper office of the Secretary of the Treasury to pursue enforcement of certain tax laws, and both knew this at the time, they signed their respective declarations, this Court should set its granting of Summary Judgment aside and finding such was obtain by materially false statements.

This Court has the authority to set its order aside based upon said order being obtained by false material statements.

Neither the qualified immunity or prosecutorial immunity were based upon the facts that have since come to light in the criminal prosecution of Springer.

2. None of the 13 persons in Springer's home were authorized by the Secretary under Title 26 § 7608(b).

Incorporating the argument in Section 1, each remaining Bivens Defendant declared they were authorized under Title 26 § 7608(b) to serve a Search Warrant.

This claim arises due to Sherns testimony that he did not know his delegation of authority on April 21, 2010.

There is no question no District Director Office under 26 CFR § 601.107 exist. It simply no longer exist. See T.D. 9156, FR Vol. 69 No. 179 (9.16.04); T.D. 9355, FR Vol. 77 No. 165 (8.27.2007). See also Revenue Ruling 2007-9.

Because there is no delegation of authority to allow the remaining declaring Bivens Defendants to act under Title 26, § 7608(b), this Court should find the declarations as to each Defendant were false to a material way.

This Court should set aside the Summary Judgment on the grounds no defendant was authorized under Title 26, § 7608(b) to serve any Search Warrant at Springer's home.

This evidence just recently came to Springer's knowledge but has always been known by the Defendants.

3. None of the Eleven were authorized to act under Title 26 § 7608(b) due to a purported referral.

Although this argument is opposite to issue #1, the Defendants cannot have it both ways. Either there was or wasn't a referral.

If there was the Secretary's authority ceased and no 7608(b) authority was available to be delegated to anyone. The Secretary's authority stops upon referral.

The Eleven, including Mr. Shern, cannot keep Secretary's authority, even if he had any, after a referral is made.

This Court should find the declarations relied upon to claim qualified immunity were false as to each of the Eleven Defendants and set Summary Judgment as to qualified immunity aside as the 10th Circuit's decision in 09-3088 is premised upon false material statements.

4. The Search Warrant was unlawful and served unlawfully.

The affidavit in the Clerk's office was not sworn. This invalidates the warrant.

Since Mr. Shern nor anyone else was authorized to serve a Search Warrant under Title 26, § 7608(b)

the Search warrant was unlawful and served with no Statutory or regulatory authority.

Conclusion

Springer request this Court find the Prosecutorial and Qualified Immunity it granted to Mr. Hoin and Ms. Nelson should be set aside and overruled as they had no PROSECUTIONAL referral from the Secretary of the Treasury to authorize prosecution of Springer, that both were entered based upon false statements; and that this Court should set aside its order granting qualified immunity to each of the remaining defendants because neither could have possessed authority of the Secretary of the Treasury out side the District of Columbia due to abolishing by the President District
Director of Offices and all revenue Districts, as of 1999, and that if a referral had been lawfully made,
no defendant would have any Title 24, § 7608(b) authority because after criminal referral the Secretary's authority ceases.
